About: Robin Kelly has been teaching at Tri-C since August 2001. Previously, she taught “just for fun” in the MBA programs of John Carroll University and Ursuline College.

Prior to her work at Tri-C, Kelly spent more than 20 years in private sector management positions with companies, such as international sales and corporate planning for Kohler, marketing specialty products for Rubbermaid, director of marketing for Sealy, and vice president of marketing for the Tranzonic Companies. Kelly also served as the president of ENPAC in Eastlake. Her areas of specialization include management, marketing and international business.

At home, she enjoys working on her 14-acre hobby farm and playing classical guitar. She is actively involved in local political activities. But most of all, she enjoys her profession and looks forward to each new semester with Tri-C’s wonderful students.
